Center for Global Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Development 19
I am delighted to extend my greetings and warm wishes to you as the Director of Africana Studies at Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI). I sincerely hope that you will find IUPUI to be a warm and nurturing environment for your various intellectual pursuits and interests over the next few years. IUPUI is a very exciting place to study and there are many degree and professional programs that are now offered. Students from many diverse backgrounds have become part of our academic landscape over the past few decades.

The Africana Studies Program continues to expand and grow across time. We are happy to inform you that we now offer a Bachelor’s Degree in the School of Liberal Arts with a major in Africana Studies and you can also acquire a minor as well. The rich heritage of Africana Studies connects us with the mother continent Africa, which was the birthplace of human kind as we know it. Our faculty bring a rich and diverse knowledge and background of Africa to their teaching and research activities and infuse their understanding of Africa’s rich historical past and contemporary activities into our classroom experiences, but they also examine at great length the African American experience as well as the development of the African diaspora and the critical role and responsibilities of diasporic Africans today within the changing contours of the global economy. We are indeed excited about the prospects for the present and future development of Africa and the African Diaspora for there are unprecedented opportunities for individual and societal development processes to occur that did not exist before. We hope that you will move forward to seize the moment and the unprecedented opportunities that now await you within the broader context of the 21st century knowledge economy.

One of the questions that students ask most often is what types of occupations they can pursue if they major in Africana Studies? This is an important question and the reality is that there are numerous careers that you may pursue in areas such as education, non-profit organizations, entrepreneurship, think tanks, the media, non-profit organizations, community organizations, law, health care, state, federal or local governmental agencies, national and international organizations, and many others.

Again, we wish you well in your academic endeavors at IUPUI and look forward to working with you more to make your academic experience both successful and rewarding.

With my very best regards,

Dr. Bessie House-Soremekun
Director of Africana Studies
Indiana University Purdue University Indianapolis
On behalf of IUPUI’s Africana Studies faculty, I would like to welcome you to our program. In my capacity as Lead Undergraduate Advisor, I look forward to assisting you in the development of a course of study for your Africana Studies major or minor that will be a meaningful and rewarding academic experience for you. Although Africana Studies is relatively new as a field of study, it is based on knowledge that is older than the Pyramids of ancient Egypt. Yet the application of this timeless knowledge illuminates the present condition and future prospects of the world. Its students and faculty investigate the history, life and culture of African descended peoples, exploring both the ways in which the African experience is configured by social, political, and economic factors, and the aesthetic dimensions of that experience as expressed in the arts and literature. Our curriculum emphasizes courses on the African American, African and African Diasporic experience. The Africana Studies program is committed to providing you with an educational experience that is unsurpassed in nurturing and preparing you for life in a global, multicultural world.

The Africana Studies Program supports internationally recognized professional scholarly organizations such as the Association for the Study of African American Life and History and the National Council for Black Studies. These two organizations are the premier organizations in Black Studies and you are encouraged to become a member of one or both of these organizations as well as attend their annual meetings. The Africana Studies program also supports campus student groups and organizations designed to meet the academic and social needs of African American students and others at IUPUI including the African Student Association, the Black Student Union, Black sororities and fraternities, the Student African American Brotherhood, Student African American Sisterhood, and pre-professional groups in engineering, journalism, law, and medicine. Other campus events in which the program participates are the Black History Month Celebration, the African Students dinner and the Celebration of Black Graduates.

In addition to the numerous academic scholarship opportunities offered by IUPUI, Africana Studies offers two scholarships—the Olaniyan and the Marie Turner-Wright—to qualified undergraduates. You are strongly encouraged to apply for either or both of these academic scholarships. The Program also offers the Preston Eagleson and Outstanding Student awards. The first award goes to a student who writes a meritorious paper in our courses; the second is given to a graduating senior who faculty believe have contributed in a significant way to the Africana Studies program academically and or in service to the community.

Students may also apply for financial support for innovative research projects undertaken under the guidance of individual instructors. Africana Studies majors and minors are encouraged to take advantage of various service learning opportunities and internship programs offered by the program as well as the university. Students completing the Africana Studies major are well prepared for graduate study in Urban League, NAACP, Urban Affairs, and the Office of the humanities and social sciences. Majors in Africana Studies can also pursue professional training in fields such as pharmacy, medicine, or law. Africana Studies graduates have also successfully pursued employment opportunities in business, the federal and state government, international development agencies, human service units, social service programs, and counseling services. Africana Studies is also an appropriate academic background for work in community organizations such as the National Economic Opportunity as well as teaching at all levels.

Sincerely,

Monroe H. Little, Jr.
Africana Studies Lead Undergraduate Advisor
Welcome to Africana Studies

Africana Studies at IUPUI is devoted to the scholarly exploration of African and African American history, life and culture from an interdisciplinary perspective. The Program as well as various schools and departments within the University offer a variety of courses, lectures and other scholarly activities which explore different aspects of the historical and contemporary African as well as African American experience.

IUPUI Africana Studies Program Mission, Philosophy and Goal

OUR MISSION:

To provide an academically rigorous, socially engaging, and relevant learning environment for the study of Africa and the African Diaspora.

OUR PHILOSOPHY:

The active pursuit of knowledge - utilizing critical thinking skills - is essential for students to evaluate themselves, their communities and the world. Our instruction assists them in acquiring the intellectual skills that encourage an alternative, transformative, inclusive vision of humanity. We are committed to instilling the confidence and tenacity to actualize that vision as well as foster among students a spirit of leadership and respect for others.

OUR GOAL:

To graduate well-prepared, confident students dedicated to careers of service who have the potential for future development in mind and character as they assume the highest responsibilities of local, national and global citizenship.

Africana Studies (AFRO) Major

The Africana Studies major prepares undergraduates for productive local, national and international careers or graduate work. It grounds students in the essential theory and basic information about people of African descent that serves as a foundation of knowledge for advanced study in the discipline. Recognizing the importance of cross-cultural understanding and regional differences of the African experience, it also provides students with a trans-national perspective on the life, history and culture of people of African descent in the United States, Latin America, Canada, the Caribbean, Europe, and Africa. To ensure coherence within the overall major, students must also complete one introductory course and one senior seminar capstone course.

The Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in Africana Studies (AFRO) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

- Completion of general education and distribution requirements as indicated in the School of Liberal Arts section of the IUPUI bulletin that was current when the student declared a major in Africana Studies.
- Completion of a total of 33 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.
- There is no double counting within the major. Courses which can potentially count in two or more areas can only fulfill one requirement within the major.
- Students cannot take more than 6 hours of AFRO-A 495: Independent Study, AFRO-A 499: Community Experience Internship, or AFRO-A 499: Honors Thesis for credit.

Major Requirements:

- AFRO-A 140: Introduction to African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.)
- AFRO-A 200: Research in African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.)
- AFRO-A 306: Globalization, Struggle and Empowerment in the African Diaspora (3 cr.)
- Senior capstone course requirement choose from: AFRO-A 414: Seminar in African American and African Diaspora Studies (3 cr.) or, with approval from the director, a 3 credit AFRO-A 495: Independent Study capstone project
- Area concentration requirement (9 credits) in one of the following geographical regions: Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean, North America

The area concentration must include courses from at least 2 different School of Liberal Arts departments and at least 2 courses at the 300 level or higher.

African Studies (AFRO) Certificate

The Africana Studies Program offers an 18 credit hour Certificate in African Studies designed to provide undergraduate students with an overview and understanding of both historical and contemporary perspectives on the lived experiences of the peoples and cultures of Africa. The curriculum provides students with a wide breadth of knowledge pertaining to the approaches used in the study of Africa in terms of its history, development, politics, culture, religion, health, environment, resources, growth, and economies. The Certificate in African Studies enables students to supplement their instruction in their major discipline with a concentration on African Studies. Alternatively, the Certificate provides additional preparation for students currently pursuing pre-med, pre-dentistry, nursing, business, engineering, and law degrees, who may envision a future career working in Africa.

Admission to the Certificate program in African Studies (AFRO) requires the following:

- 55 credit hours earned towards a degree at IUPUI
- At least a cumulative GPA of 2.5
- Contact the program office to complete the necessary paperwork to officially declare the certificate.

The Certificate in African Studies (AFRO) requires satisfactory completion of the following:

Completion of a total of 18 credit hours, with a minimum grade of C in each course.

Liberal Arts gives out a variety of awards and scholarships. A complete list and description can be found at http://www.iupui.edu/~scentral/
Olaniyan Scholars Program

The Olaniyan (Oh-LAWN-eee-yawn) Scholars Program promotes the development of undergraduate research and professional experience through African American and African Diaspora Studies (AAADS), or the study of African peoples still living in Africa and those populations scattered around the globe since slavery and colonization.

The Scholarship Offers:

• Full in-state tuition renewable for up to four years
• A $2,000 stipend per year
• The opportunity to engage in research work with a full-time faculty member
• The opportunity to participate in community internships

Out-of-state students must make special arrangements to cover the difference between in-state and out-of-state costs; out-of-state students should discuss options with the Office of Student Scholarships (317-274-5516) and/or the Office of Student Financial Aid Services (317-274-4162).

OLANIYAN SCHOLARS HIGH SCHOOL SUMMER EXPERIENCE

The Olaniyan Scholars High School Summer Experience is an opportunity to introduce youth to new academic experiences and to challenge them to think critically. Students participate in a daycamp during the first two full weeks of June that expands their knowledge of populations of African descent.

The Olaniyan Scholars Summer Experience will provide students with the opportunity to:

• Earn up to $1500 in scholarship money to IUPUI
• Experience college life at an urban institution
• Develop and/or improve study skills for college
• Broaden knowledge of the history of peoples of African descent
• Gain an understanding of what undergraduate research is, how it is practiced, and its benefits to academic success
• Better understand and set goals for academic and professional achievement
• Establish relationships and work closely with university faculty and staff
• Earn an official Olaniyan Scholars Summer Experience Certificate from the Indiana University School of Liberal Arts Africana Studies Program

Feature demos - 2-4 minute videos - Many of these short videos focus on basic tasks for both students (posting a profile picture) and instructors (posting a course announcement and email notification).
Hermano & Hermano Program

The Hermano a Hermano Project (H2H) is a two week critical service-learning program open to all IUPUI and IU students. The program was founded at IUPUI in 2007 as a result of recruitment and retention initiatives under the leadership of then University College Assistant Dean, Phillip Seabrook, and Juhanna Rogers. In 2010, H2H moved under the Africana Studies umbrella. H2H seeks to challenge students to think globally and critically about topics related to culture, race, and identity in the Caribbean.

To date the program has taken more than 50 students abroad and sustained partnerships with organizations and universities throughout the Dominican Republic. While abroad, students participate in workshops, lectures, and cultural excursions that bring the history and culture of the island to life. This is not just a service trip, it is an experience that helps students think about their role in the world in a new way!

The program is part of a three credit summer course. The program is open to students in all academic majors. Interested students should apply for the program during the fall semester. Financial aid and scholarships are available for students who choose to study abroad. Center for Global Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Development

The Center for Global Entrepreneurship and Sustainable Development is an interdisciplinary research and community outreach center that was established in the Indiana University School of Liberal Arts whose primary purpose is to understand the impacts of globalization on Africa and the African diasporas and to build entrepreneurial capacity in the United States and Africa.

The community outreach performed by the center encompasses community building and outreach efforts at the local, national, and international levels of analysis.

With more than 20 Research Fellows now affiliated with its operations, CEGESUD is now poised to become one of the top centers in the world which focuses on enhancing entrepreneurial capacity, sustainable development initiatives, and economic growth and development in Africa and minority communities in the United States in the era of globalization.

Dr. Bessie House-Soremekun was appointed by Dr. Bill Blomquist, Dean of the School of Liberal Arts, to serve as its Founding Executive Director. Under Dr. House-Soremekun’s direction, the Center currently focuses its research efforts on the following areas of interest:

- Sustainable Entrepreneurship
- Women’s Entrepreneurship
- Capacity Building
- Globalization
- Minority and Hip Hop Entrepreneurship
- Assessment through experimental research
- Design and modeling of the best practices in building entrepreneurial capacity.
