ENHANCING COMMUNICATION SKILLS FOR INTERNATIONAL MEDICAL PROFESSIONALS

INTERCULTURAL TRAINING
The Indiana Center for Intercultural Communication (ICIC) is an internationally-recognized language, intercultural research and training center that is part of the Department of English and the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI.

ICIC is a leader in English for Specific Purposes — designing English language and cultural training for specific professional and academic needs.

ICIC OFFERS:
- Training in intercultural communication for U.S. and international professionals
- Language and intercultural assessment services
- Accent modification and pronunciation training
- Courses in writing and presentation skills
- Group and individualized instruction
- CME accreditation

ASSESSMENTS
Language experts from ICIC have developed and refined a unique assessment process that evaluates the language and communication skills of medical professionals. This comprehensive, proprietary assessment is used to identify potential areas of improvement in both language and intercultural communication skills.

GROUP TRAINING
ICIC also develops group classes for researchers and medical professionals. Classes provide opportunities to practice English speaking and patient communication skills with other medical professionals with similar goals. Course materials focus on medical terminology and common patient scenarios.

ONE-ON-ONE TRAINING
ICIC offers one-on-one language tutoring to fit the unique work schedules of medical care providers. Training plans are targeted to quickly and discreetly address any communication concerns.

CME ACCREDITATION
Many of ICIC’s classes for medical professionals are eligible for Continuing Medical Education credits. Contact ICIC for more information.
