This course covers the history of international humanitarian assistance during the 19th and 20th centuries. Its focus is on the movement and activities that developed in wealthier countries (Europe and the U.S.) during this period which attempted to help those in other lands in need of assistance (e.g., food, shelter, medical care). Students will study a number of case histories of responses to disasters and other events prompting humanitarian assistance, including the background history of many organizations still in existence, such as the Red Cross, United Nations agencies and NGOs.
