Dear Friend,

After 30 years, the School, like the nation, is at an important crossroad celebrating our history and looking to our future.

Private philanthropy supporting the School’s programs reached a record high in 2002. 1,291 donors contributed $5,829,389.22 in support of the educational mission of the IU School of Liberal Arts at IUPUI. This report is offered in appreciation of each member of the Liberal Arts family who has contributed and the profound impact these gifts have had.

Founding members of the School’s family have joined the ranks of retirement. Don Schultheis, Assistant Dean for Fiscal Affairs, retired early in the year following 39 years of service to IUPUI and the School. Veteran faculty Betty Anderson Schnur, Richard Fredland, Stephen Sachs, Justin Libby and Patrick McGeever also celebrated retirement. Fortunately, as our founding faculty retire, the school has attracted outstanding young academics with enthusiasm for their research and teaching to carry forward our traditions of excellence.

The School remains committed to providing a rich environment of creative and intellectual programming to the Indianapolis community. Dr. David Rapoport, Professor Emeritus of Political Science, University of California-Los Angeles, a specialist in religious terrorism, was the John D. Barlow Lecturer in the Humanities. Among the many opportunities for the community to participate in the intellectual life of the school are the Sabbatical Speakers Series, the Rufus Reiberg Creative Reading Series, the Joseph Taylor Symposium, a new series called Breakfast with the Experts, and the Keith Bulen Symposium on American Politics. These shared experiences are increasingly important to our community as we grow and change. The generosity of friends, alumni, faculty and staff make these and other special events possible.

Thank you,
Herman J. Saatkamp, Jr.
Dean

Of Special Note

In the past, IUPUI was known as a campus of non-traditional and professional students. The demographics of our students have been shifting over the past five years. Full-time students are now in the majority. Often, these students can devote more time to their studies, and they tend to have fewer obligations outside the classroom. Thus, more students are able to take advantage of international study experiences. With this demand in mind, and a deep seated belief in the importance of these experiences for students, two new donor-initiated scholarships were founded. Jane and Fred Schlegel established the Jane and Fred Schlegel Study Abroad Scholarship with a generous gift of life insurance. Dr. James Beaudry, former chair of the French department, along with his wife, Dr. Agnes Beaudry, established the James and Agnes Beaudry Scholarship for Prospective French Teachers through a charitable gift annuity.

Dr. Charls and Claire Pearson were recognized with the 2002 Spirit of Philanthropy Award for their extraordinary support of the Peirce Edition Project. Because they have a far-reaching vision, the Pearsons are heading up efforts to establish an endowment to keep the Peirce Edition Project functioning in perpetuity.

Mark and Dianne Foglesong saw the value of youth involvement in discussions surrounding the Spirit and Place Festival, a community-wide festival managed by the School’s Polis Center, and created a program called Youth Speak Out. This successful new program will become a cornerstone of the Festival’s activities, and is an investment in our youth, this community’s future.

Campaign co-chairs, Barbara and Karl Zimmer were honored with the President’s Medallion at a ceremony in September. Dean and Pauline Bonderman also received the President’s Medallion for their nearly twenty years of support of the Bonderman National Youth Theatre Playwriting Competition and Symposium. The Symposium will continue, proving that programs begun by faculty (Professor Emerita Dorothy Webb) and supported by community friends take on a life of their own and are a lasting legacy.

As we celebrate and learn from our history, we are deeply grateful to our friends and alumni for their expressions of faith in the future. Their gifts in time, treasure and talent sustain and grow the important work of higher education in Indiana, and ultimately in our community’s long term economic health.
