What you can do with a major in...

Medical Humanities & Health Studies

Potential Areas of Employment:
- World Health Organization
- Non-Profit Organizations
- Educational Institutions
- Government Agencies
- U.S. Military
- Hospitals & Healthcare
- Research Institutes
- Peace Corps
- Law Offices
- Public Health

Professional Associations are excellent sources of career and employment information, and many of them have websites. Joining professional associations can be a great way to expand your network and make valuable connections. Below is a list of some sites:

- American Association for the History of Medicine
- American Society for Bioethics and Humanities
- Association for Prevention Teaching and Research
- Society for Literature, Science and the Arts
  http://litsciarts.org/index.html

Check out student organizations on campus:

- Medical Humanities & Health Studies Student Interest Group

Transferable Skills: Skills that can easily be applied in a variety of fields

- Forming Connections between Fields of Study
- Applying data in diverse contexts
- Understanding Values and Ethics
- Cultural Awareness
- Communication
- Professionalism
- Research
- Empathy

Additional Sources for Information

Alumni and faculty members in your major and related fields are great resources. You can also visit the Liberal Arts Office of Career Development in CA243 to speak with a career coach. The Office of Career Development can help you gather additional information about careers that interest you.