

Indy's alternative voice

Video Production Intern | NUVO Street Team

NUVO is looking for socially outgoing, high-energy students who are enthusiastic about promotions and marketing to help us create video content that spreads the word about NUVO to the Indianapolis community. Video Production Interns at NUVO will receive valuable real world, curriculum-specific experience in our offices as well as the opportunity to attend some of Indy's best music, arts and social events. This internship is the chance to learn first-hand the business of marketing a modern media company. While interning with NUVO, you will gain real experience while working alongside our Marketing, Promotions and even our Editorial department. Interns are invited and encouraged to attend departmental meetings to gain first-hand experience across all aspects of a modern media company including web, marketing, promotions, editorial and production. Educational meetings will be set up between managers of different departments and the student interns.

Responsibilities of the NUVO Video Production Intern include but are not limited to: creating video content for NUVO's social media platforms and NUVO.net, video editing and participation in Street Team events. Interns will be working with Social Media & Content interns to develop inventive ideas and accomplish goals.

Additionally, interns will assist NUVO by staffing various cultural events around town. This includes but is not limited to: distributing NUVO materials, conducting enter-to-win giveaways, emceeing events and otherwise interacting with the public.

Interns will be required to be in the office 8 hours a week and each intern will be required to work two events per week out of the office. Event hours will vary per event. This internship is non-paid and is for-credit only.

To apply, please contact Joey Smith (jsmith@nuvo.net)