MHHS-M 495 Seminar in MHHS (Capstone); Topic: Precision Medicine (3 crs.)
6:00-8:40 PM  W  Jane Hartsock

As medicine continues to differentiate disease based on increasingly smaller biological fragments, our understanding of what it means to be human is destabilized. At the same time, the ability to isolate and identify the source of a disease (or even the propensity to develop a disease) has given rise to increasingly effective treatments for previously serious, and even fatal conditions. This tension between advances in science and a de-centralization of the human in medicine has a long history. Now, as the fourth epoch of medicine emerges in the form of Personalized or Precision Medicine, we examine that history and its ethical and cultural implications. Authorization of program required.
